

DR. BERGMANN

Dr. Hugo Bergmann, Rector of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will arrive in March for a six weeks stay in this country as the guest of the American Friends of the Hebrew University. During his stay in the United States Dr. Bergmann will visit a number of the larger cities to enable friends of the University to hear first hand reports on the progress made during the past few years in building up a Jewish cultural and educational center in Palestine, as well as the ambitious plans for further growth of the first Jewish University in the world.

War Minister In Praise of Jews

KAUNAS, (JTA)—War Minister Dirmantas has lauded the role of the Jews in the Lithuanian army in war and peace and declared that no radical antagonism could exist in the army "because we consider all soldiers equal." At a press conference he emphasized that Jews heroically fought together with Lithuanians for the country's independence, that many were decorated and many others fell on the battlefield. Jews are similarly fulfilling their duties in peacetime, he added.

Doctor Called to Door and Killed

JERUSALEM, (JTA)—Arab terrorists last week shot and killed Dr. Joseph Lehr, 40, a German-Jewish physician and the only remaining Jew in the Arab city of Beisan.

A police communique started three Arabs knocked at the door of Dr. Lehr's home and shot the physician down when he opened it. Police, hearing the shooting, gave chase but the assassins made good their escape.

Berlin Rabbi Tells Jews

To Leave Nazi Neighborhood
BERLIN, (JTA)—A Berlin rabbi advised the Jews of Germany this week to "love thy neighbor as thyself, even if the love is not reciprocated."

Addressing 2,000 Jewish ex-service men at synagogue services commemorating 12,000 war dead, Rabbi Vanderzyl added the comment: "Instead of being German Jews, we are now Jews in Germany."

The services, attended also by the mothers, widows and orphans of the fallen soldiers, were organized throughout Germany by the Federal Union of Jewish War Veterans. A minute's silence was observed by Jews all over the Reich.

House Hears Poland Charged With Bias

WASHINGTON, (JTA)—Representative Samuel Dickstein, New York, in an address in the House last week, advised Poland to halt anti-Jewish excesses and adopt a more sympathetic attitude toward the Jews if it wished the sympathy of the world.

He reminded Poland of its obligations to the Jews because of their aid in obtaining the country's independence, and recalled Poland's traditional tolerance of minorities. Poland gave an asylum to Jews when they were persecuted elsewhere, he said.

Pope Could Halt Poland Outrage, Chicago Prof Says

CHICAGO, (JTA)—A word from the Pope in Rome would be sufficient to end persecution of Jews in predominantly-Catholic Poland, according to Prof. Paul H. Douglas, of Chicago University. Accordingly he has advised an appeal to the Vatican.

Addressing a conference on the situation of the Jews in Poland called by the Chicago division of the American Jewish Congress, the Federation of Polish Jews and other organizations, Prof. Douglas also counseled appeals to individual governments to intervene in behalf of the Polish Jews.

Recalling the action taken by the United States in connection with the Kishineff program of 1905, he said: "What America did in 1905 our present administration can certainly do in 1937."

League Charges Schmeling Ruse

NEW YORK, (JTA)—Max Schmeling, en route to the United States on the Berengaria, used a British ship to create the impression he had no connection with the Nazis, the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League charged.

Declaring the fighter had been permitted to violate a rule in not sailing on a German ship, the League said. "In the light of the boycott movement inaugurated by the Anti-Nazi League against Schmeling, it is apparent that Schmeling has been exempted from this particular duty as a Nazi citizen in order to counteract in some measure the effects of the boycott."

Instruction In Religion Asked In Pending Bill

MADISON, WIS. (NCJC)—Public school children might be excused from classes one hour each week for religious instruction under a bill introduced into the Wisconsin Legislature.

A school board would be required to excuse the child from school at the request of a parent or guardian for religious instruction in a church or Sunday School Association. Specifically the bill states that such religious instruction, however, could not be given on the school premises, and not in whole or in part at public expense.

Veit For Instruction

NEW YORK, (NCJC)—Benjamin Veit, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, in an address at the tenth anniversary luncheon of the Jewish Teachers Association, today declared that some form of religion instruction should be given to the school children of this city.

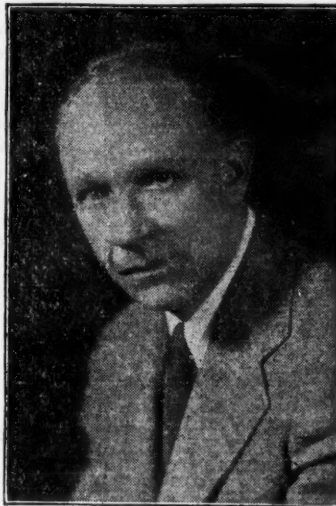

"I urge all of you," he said, "to give the problem of religious instruction great thought. I do not want to say at this time whether an hour for religious raining should be given during school hours or after school, but lend your support to those working for a solution. Work with those who feel that a democracy cannot persist unless there are spiritual values inculcated by children while they are still young."

Mr. Veit suggested that each denomination could set up its own religious centers and that teachers could volunteer to help in the religious program after school hours. He admitted, however, that "the difficulty is to get teachers."

Biblical Murder Verified By Archaeological Finds

JERUSALEM, (JTA)—Modern detectives of archaeology have shed light on a murder committed 2,500 years ago and related in the Bible.

The court martial of a Jewish general for complicity in the murder of the prophet Uriahu—a murder mentioned in the Book of Jeremiah—among other charges, has been partly reconstructed through the translation of ancient Hebrew potsherds.

"The letters dealing with these matters provide us with the background of a highly important chapter of the Old Testament and the history of religion," according to Prof. Harry Torczyner, of the Hebrew University, who prepared the translation.

The letters appear to be records of a trial of Hoshajahu, commander of a place near Lachisch, sent to Ja'ush, commander of the Western Hebrew army and governor of the Lachisch fortress. The military court was in session just before the destruction of the fortress by Nebuchadnezzar in 588 B. C.

The potsherds are part of a find made by Prof. I. L. Starkey, head of the British Wellcome Expedition to the Near East in 1935 at Tul'Duweit, midway between Hebron and Gaza, in excavations on the site of Lachisch. The final translations of the letters will be published shortly in England.

Lachisch is mentioned several times in the Bible. The potsherds, Prof. Torczyner reports, are "nothing less than letters which had been written to a certain Ja'ush during the latter period of the war between the Assyrians and the Jews, a short time before the destruction of Jerusalem."

"Ja'ush appears to have been the governor of Lachisch fortress and commandant of the Western army. The writer of the letters was Hoshajahu, the commandant of a smaller place in the vicinity. The letters had been found in an open room on one side of the fortress tower, which we at first had taken for a guards' room. In the meantime, however, both Starkey and I, although we proceeded from different angles, have been led to the same conclusion, viz. that the room was used for Court proceedings."

"The letters which were in this room and which all have to do with the shortcomings and the excuse of the above mentioned Hoshajahu, would appear to be nothing else but the remains of the official files of the last military court which was in session immediately before its conquest and destruction by Nebuchadnezzar in 588 B. C."

"Thus it is explained how it comes that the letters were written over a period of several years. Among he charges against Hoshajahu, against which he defends himself, was apparently also that of having contributed to the murder of the prophet Uriahu, of which we have an account from Jeremiah."

Harvard Gets Gift of 2,283 Hebrew Books

CAMBRIDGE, (NCJC)—Virtually covering the entire field of ancient Hebrew learning, a gift of 2,283 rare Hebrew works from Rabbi H. G. Enelow's collection of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America has been given to Harvard University by Lucius N. Littauer, famous Jewish Philanthropist of New York, it was announced here.

The Jewish benefactor has made contributions to Harvard before. In 1935 he donated $2,000,000 for the establishment of a Graduate School of Business Administration. In 1929 he gave a collection of 12,000 rare Hebrew books and manuscripts, and in 1925, he established the Nathan Littauer Professorship of Jewish Literature and Philosophy as a memorial to his father.

The collection will give Harvard's Library pre-eminence in the field of post-Biblical literature and will greatly increase the effectiveness of the Professorship given in memory of his father.

Among the items in the collection is the earliest work printed in Hebrew, an edition of the former prophets, Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings, produced in 1494 in Leiria, Portugal, as well as volumes of Psalms and Proverbs, printed in Naples in 1486 and 1487.

The volume of Proverbs is the first edition of this book ever printed in Hebrew and is accompanied by a commentary, never reprinted, by Immanuel of Rome, contemporary of Dante and greatest Jewish Poet in Italy.

The late Rabbi H. G. Enelow was a personal friend of Mr. Littauer's and had one of the country's leading collection of Hebrew literature. His will left the whole library to the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

The Editor's Chair:

Mr. Ely Freed, formerly of 3346 Hull Avenue, Bronx, N. Y., and now of 215 E. Gun Hill Road, also of the Bronx, is a rare and scholarly individual. He is scholarly because he likes this paper, and rare because he likes Vladimir Jabotinsky.

In sending to our circulation department a notice of his change of address Mr. Freed gratuitously appended two postscripts. "P.S. When does our subscription expire?" And "P.S.S. We don't approve particularly of pro-Jabotinsky editorials".

Placed side by side the two postscripts tell a "mouthful". Mr. Freed is eagerly awaiting the time when he can tell us that he is happy not to renew his subscription.

I don't know Mr. Freed's age, but I happened to be a young man. I was stirred when I read of Jabotinsky's famous exploits as a leader of the Jewish Expeditionary Forces when England defeated the Turks and recaptured Palestine for the first time since the Middle Ages. Like thousands of East European Jews, whom life has robbed of any chance of happiness, I admire Jabotinsky for his forthrightness and his audacity.

As far as approving of anything or everything Jabotinsky this paper is just as critical in this respect as it is of the general Zionists who, especially in America, have failed so miserably. In demanding Transjordan be included in the Balfour Declaration, Jabotinsky is only now, years later, being echoed by the World Zionist Organization. In demanding free and unlimited immigration and the recognition of the principle of Palestine as the Jewish National Homeland, Jabotinsky was at least two years a head of Weizmann and the Jewish Agency.

For this and for his own heroism and leadership in the World War long before present day Zionists were awake to the significance of a possible return to the Holy Land, Jabotinsky deserves a fair hearing. This paper intends to see that he gets it.

Mr. Freed may be a leading Zionist in New York, and I hope he is, for it will do him no harm to hear both sides of the question, and if the truth were known, it probably would do him a world of good.

Religious Instruction In Schools A Certainty

Religious Instruction In Schools A Certainty

THE time is approaching when religious instruction will become a regular part of public school curriculum. Anyone in touch with the trend in the educational field can safely say that it is only a question of time before religious instruction will be as common in grade schools as reading or writing.

According to present indications, it seems that the disagreement is not so much with the importance of religion as a factor in the spiritual upbringing of the child, but with the means by which this essential of life can be imparted without infringing on constitutional guarantees.

The latest convert to religious instruction is Benjamin Veit, assistant superintendent of New York City schools. "I urge all of you to give the problem of religious instruction great thought," he told the Jewish Teachers Association of New York. "I do not want to say at this time whether an hour for religious training should be given during school hours or after school, but lend your support to those working for a solution. Work with those who feel that a democracy cannot persist unless there are spiritual values imbibed by children while they are still young".

Under the present arrangement, children would be excused at a certain period to attend classes where instruction would be given in their particular denomination by competent teachers, not a part of the school system, whose salary will be taken care of by the religious group they represent.

Naturally there are opponents to the plan. But they will be outweighed.

For those who favor this plan, or any other feasible plan, it offers a solution to the Hebrew School problem in a much greater degree than has heretofore ever been envisioned. Not only will Jewish children receive instruction in Judaism, but they will receive it in an orderly and organized way, under which they will not have to sacrifice a major part of their afternoons in envious distinction to their non-Jewish friends who have what day light remains for play and entertainment.

Will The Z. O. A. Accept The Challenge

EATING gall and wormwood would be putting it lightly in describing the feelings of the Zionists on this, the silver jubilee year of their female and perforce weaker auxiliary, the Hadassah.

A slight (slighting to the Zionists) comparison between the two organizations shows why this paper has contended that the Hadassah should wear the pants and the Zionist Organizations of American, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise included, should adorn their ungainly frames with long, courtly dresses, and the other accoutrements which are supposed to represent the female's weakness, inferiority, and inability to cope with modern problems.

	Zionists	Hadassah
Organized	1897	1911
Membership	15,000	55,000
1936 Gain	none	6,000

More could be said, but why hold a post mortem over a bankrupt business.

The usually staid, but always self-adulatory, sometimes vacillating, Boston Jewish Advocate resorted to intemperate language when last week it said editorially,

"Since the Balfour Declaration in 1917, millions of words have been uttered from thousands of speaking platforms and pulpits in behalf of Zionism; thousands of speakers have stood before audiences, gesticulating, bobbing their heads with emotion, raising their voices to an ecstatic pitch, repeating over and over again the message of Zionism, what it is, and what it offers to the Jewish people and American Jewry in particular. We have had twenty years of constant talk on Zionism. The twenty years have made room for a new generation of Jews which for almost their entire lives have been bombarded with speeches about Palestine, and yet with all this talk and all this time, the number of American Jews who are affiliated with the Zionist movement in any of its branches, is pitifully small."

No member of this paper's staff has ever been asked to join the Z.O.A., and yet every member would be more than eager to join. This paper is "self-adulatory" enough to declare that it will secure 100 new members for the Z.O.A., in the next few months, if the Z.O.A., is willing to accept the challenge.

No reader of this paper is an anti-Zionist. Some may not be pro-Zionists, but all, by this time, are in favor of Palestine as a Jewish homeland. This paper believes that of its readers, there must be a great number who are not members of the Z.O.A., because they have never been approached to join. Of the 600,000 Jewish male adults in the United States, thirty-nine out of every forty are not members of the Zionist Organization of America. Probably the average is a little better of readers of this paper, since by their subscription they have evidenced a deeper interest in Jewish affairs. ,,

It's a challenge, Z.O.A. This paper has put itself on the spot, neck sticking out, and vulnerable all over. Will you accept the challenge?

Why The Jews Are Persecuted

BY DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

EDITOR'S NOTE: England's wartime Prime Minister, who saw the Balfour Declaration issued by his Government, takes up his trenchant pen to discuss the Jews. The following article was written especially for Liberty, national weekly magazine. It is reprinted by special arrangement with Liberty.

SURELY the Jews are the most remarkable race that ever dwelt on this earth. When they were a poor people of peasants and shepherds dwelling on a rugged plateau covering ground no more extensive than Wales, they produced the most sublime literature that ever issued from the pen of men. When they were a despised province in a great empire, they found a religion which finally conquered their conquerors and is today the accepted faith of the most powerful nations on earth. The very fact of their survival as a separate race, under the adversities and tribulations through which they have passed, demonstrates their inherent vitality and indomitable spirit. To quote the words of Walter Scott, describing the maltreatment of the Jews in England during the Middle Ages: "There was no race existing on the earth, in the air, or the waters, who were the object of such an unintermitting, general, and relentless persecution as the Jews of this period. . . . Norman, Saxon, Dane and Briton, however adverse these races were to each other, contended which should look with greatest detestation upon a people whom it was accounted a point of religion to hate, to revile, to despise, to plunder and to persecute."

But the Jews have endured all these experiences for thirty centuries, and still they are five times as numerous and many times more powerful than they were in the greatest days of their national glory. Their escape from complete annihilation is probably due to the fact that persecution was never simultaneous in all countries. When greed and bigotry combined to maltreat the Jew in one land, he always found refuge in another. We have had an illustration quite recently of fleeing from the face of danger to more tranquil regions. When Hitler drove the Jews from all the high places which their genius had won for them in Germany—France, Britain, America, and Holland opened their gates wide to the exiles of Nazism. The Red Sea has always opened its waters at the critical hour for this persecuted people.

They claim to be the chosen people of the Deity. There is certainly warrant for the claim in so far as it refers to one period in their amazing career. They were selected by Providence as the medium for the delivery of the greatest spiritual message ever sent from on high. No one can read the story of the Jewish race without understanding why it was especially deputed to convey to mankind this most exalted but at the same time most challenging truth.

But the most unaccountable mystery in the history of the Jews is the persistence, the source, and the intensity of their persecution throughout the ages. What makes it all the more inexplicable is the contrast between the treatment accorded to the Jews in Christian countries and that which they have received under Moslem rule. The warlike followers of Mohammed extended the fullest religious freedom to the Jews, who regarded both Christ and Mohammed as false interpreters of the God of Israel. Neither Saracen nor Moor interfered with the religious worship of the Jewish communities in their midst. They profited enormously by this statesmanlike attitude. In science and in art the superiority of the early Moslems is attributable to the Jews. Christian countries were impoverished by the way in which, under the influence of the clergy, they suppressed and limited Jewish activities.

Freedom of the Press

ANTI-NAZI LEAGUE RESENTS ARTICLE

By Dr. Margoshes

To The Editor:

On February 7, 1937, Dr. S. Margoshes in his column of the New York "Day" reprinted a letter by a local Nazi-group, the German Citizens Protective League, attacking the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League. To this Dr. Margoshes added further abuse and ridicule by jealously minimizing the acknowledged activities of the Anti-Nazi League, the organization which inaugurated and is prosecuting the boycott against Nazi-made goods, Nazi shipping and services.

In answer to this unwarranted attack, Dr. S. Dudovsky, a member of the Executive Committee of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, wrote an open letter to Dr. Margoshes with the fair request for publication.

Twelve days have elapsed—Dr. Margoshes has not published this letter; we are therefore calling attention to the disruptive and most unfair conduct of certain jealous individuals.

Dear Dr. Margoshes:

Many thanks for your attempt to defend the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League in your issue of February 7th, against the Nazis masquerading as the "German Citizens Protective League".

Perhaps we were really wrong in ignoring them. We were under the impression that their claims that we foment race hatred, pass laws, invade public schools, etc., are so preposterous that only dyed-in-the-wool Nazis and morons would take them seriously or pay attention to them. And we do not cherish the hope of converting either of the above groups to our way of thinking!

But thank you just the same for defending the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League and its president, Mr. Samuel Untermeyer. However, in your eagerness to come to our defense, you made certain statements which need a few corrections.

In the very first paragraph of your interesting column you state: "While Samuel Untermeyer has, no doubt, been a pillar of strength to the boycott of German-made goods and services, he has constantly and consistently retarded all efforts in the direction of a unification of all agencies engaged in the boycott movement in this country."

Of course the last few years were crowded with so many and such important events that one cannot expect the mind of a busy man, like you, to retain all the facts he once knew. We therefore wish to repay your kindness to the League by refreshing your memory with a few facts of the not so very long ago.

The American Jewish Congress was against the boycott even after the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, then known as the American League for the Defense of Jewish Rights, was leading a successful boycott movement. You, Dr. Margoshes, were at the pier on that memorable Sunday, August 3, 1933, and saw the unprecedented greeting tendered by scores of thousands of our citizens to Mr. Untermeyer when he returned from Europe as the leader of the boycott movement. I know you were there, for you left the pier in my company, in my car. The American Jewish Congress was then still against the boycott!

And when public opinion forced the leaders of the American Jewish Congress to declare themselves in favor of this movement, did they, like befits gentlemen, recognize their error and throw their support behind the already existing and functioning boycott league? Perhaps your recollection on this point is not very clear: They did not! They ignored the past and nonchalantly declared themselves leaders of the boycott movement.

Yes, there were unsuccessful attempts to unite the boycott activities of both organizations. Conferences were held at the home of

People And Places

BY BERNICE KAPLAN

Feeling rather lazy this week and having just received a very nice contribution from Leonard Rothschild, I decided to let him have most of the spotlight this issue. . . . Sorry I had to cut some of it out, Len, but you know how these censors are. . . .

Quote Len
"Back on the job, temporarily, and feeling quite at home, offering congrats to Bernice and Doug who have done so well in this space. Meridian Street, from McCarty south to Morris, often remains one of a section of New York's famous East side, or Chicago's noted West end, what with the aroma of smoked meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, chickens cackling at nothing, and a few of our bearded fathers discussing the present government and economic conditions throughout the world. Here, too, one might see Willie Safran tugging his store window or Jack Rogin, a little North, cleaning off a white "fresh Salomi" sign, or if it's in the evening, Lee Rundberg stepping from a trolley at Ray Street; Ray Abraham unloading the truck, and Cohen's with crates and crates of eggs; parking space always scarce here, and the hum-drum of business from daylight until after midnight. . . . Who they remind me of—Mrs. Myro Glass; actress Margo; Leon Kempler; actor Ralph Bellamy; "Ducky" Becker; Frank (3 Men On A Horse) McHugh; Mrs. Joe Burnstein; Carole Lombard; Mrs. Leonard Solomon; Margaret Lindsay. Ernest Tandler, in a statement to newspapermen, concerning his new theatre said that it's strictly business from now on. . . . marriage is far, far away. . . . Izzy Greenberg is operating an elevator in a downtown store. . . . The town can boast of a bunch of new Jewish lassies employed in a new store, and good to look at (the girls, I mean). . . . Samuel Kagan covers the state for the historical bureau. . . . Julius Salaman is employed in the office. . . . Julius was prominently mentioned for the presidency of the Jewish Union (and deserved it), but the "two factions" of the organization edged him out. Sort of reminds one of Tammany Hall and the Fusion party. That group here could be greater than it is but the idea of a speaker, banquet and dance once each year doesn't seem to carry much weight. It's been so nice seeing you again, and I may be around in the future, who knows? So until then just take it easy. . . . Leo Rothschild."

Opportunity
Now why don't some of the rest of you get ambitious, and write up a few items for me. . . . there may be a lot of latent talent, and here's the opportunity some of you should take advantage of. . . . With all of the Jewish families on 29th and Park, anything can happen, but tops was Goldie Pallman dressed in a very unusual costume last Sunday, pedaling a bicycle lickety-split down the street. . . . it sounds very much like the collapse of the building when the Jr. Council cabaret goes into rehearsal for the tap chorus at Jac Broderick's studio. There's no doubt of the success of the show which will be held in the Indianapolis Athletic Club, April 11, because with such enthusiasm and good performance, nothing more is needed. . . . The very latest in rehearsal clothes is demonstrated by all dancers. . . . Beryl Madel chooses red print pajamas. . . . Roy Klezmer likes shirt and shorts. . . . Evelyn and Mildred Lob wear slacks and sweaters, and some girls, still overcome with modesty, insist upon wearing their street clothes. . . . Pearl Cohen is now one of the general "do it all" employees at the Communal Building, and Sophie Zimmerman is working at Kirshbaum. The taxi that Sophie and Estelle Manus were riding in Sunday night got slammed around by a streetcar—net result, Sophie laid up in bed with bruises, Estelle slightly bumped, and the driver not getting paid.

BRIDGE PASSE?

Aren't we all a blase lot though? One would think from the blank looks shown upon the mention of bridge, that the card game is certainly a lost art. . . . Only those strong characters who have mastered "contract" show any interest. . . . those who have fallen by the wayside are content to remain there. . . . Perhaps it is just as well, but we'll have to have a substitute, because the modern party is very much of a failure unless all the guests are accustomed to being the "life" of the gathering. I suggest that Leonard Burnsten dash off a few lines concerning ways of entertaining, as he seems to be the number one party men of the month, being guest at rehearsal in the last few weeks.

But Maybe I Will

Things I never expect to see—Edgar Klain absent from the Kirshbaum when there is a Junior Council meeting in session; Eunice Brenner driving a car; any of the Phi Delta Gamma's on a single date; Josh Fineberg walking slowly. It seems to me that a resolution was passed at the Conclave to the effect that attendance at Friday night services be increased. . . . so far most people still are thinking it over. . . . at least, the temples continue to have empty benches.

If you haven't your ticket for the Purim Ball, be sure to get it. . . . this year's affair is going to be quite elaborate, so turn out, full force, and may your Amateur Contest entry win.

Bialik Ping-Pong Team Tops Comets

Members of the Bialik Club defeated the Comets in a ping-pong tournament at the Communal Building last week. The team has also beat the Temple Tigers, a group which meets at the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation Temple.

Furthering the Zionist principles for which the club was founded, each member has undertaken to obtain a new member for the senior Zionist organization of Indianapolis. A Purim party was held at the Talmud Torah last week for the group, and the leader, Irving Ruben, was presented with a gift in appreciation of his valuable guidance.

BIRTHDAY BIOGRAPHIES

Mrs. Mathilde Weil--At 81, She is Interested In Art, Music, Drama And Social Welfare

Mrs. Mathilde Weil, a frequent visitor in Indianapolis, celebrated her eight-first birthday, Tuesday, February 23, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Isaac Born. Well-known in Indianapolis circles, Mrs. Weil acquired many friends lieve that surely nothing could please her better than to remain quietly knitting by the fireside, a typical grandmother. However, after a short conversation with Mrs. Weil, one learns that her interest in literature, art, music, drama, and social welfare are vital and active.

Mrs. Weil is a native of Indiana. She spent her childhood in Evansville, and at present resides in Rockport, Ind., where she has made her home in the same house for fifty-seven years. This house is one of the oldest landmarks in southern Indiana. Ferdinand Weil, her husband, before his death was in the mercantile business. Mrs. Weil is president emerita of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Rockport, and is also a member of many organizations including the Eastern Star and Rebekahs. She has four children living, Mrs. Isaac Born and Benjamin Weil of Indianapolis, Herbert S. Weil of London, and Mrs. Louis Wiener of Rockport. Another son, Samuel Weil, passed away several years ago.

Mrs. Weil has had a happy life. She has been abroad six times, and from each trip gleams many interesting view points. She is eagerly welcomed in the homes of her children and grandchildren and their friends as a lady of captivating personality. Truly if at eighty-one she can still command the attention of the younger generation, she is a remarkable person whom we hope to have with us for a great many more years.

The Inquiring
REPORTER

(The Jewish Post is presenting this week the first of a series of weekly features, in which a reporter from the paper will interview persons selected at random on a topic of general interest.)

The question: Are you in favor of the proposed boycott of Max Schmeling's exhibition tour?

The answers:

Jack Larman, Exchange Furniture Co.: "No. The notoriety would be detrimental to the Jewish people. It would make the affair in its Jewish aspects too prominent in the eyes of the world."

Miss Eunice Brenner, 4160 College Ave.: "Yes. One would naturally be against any German activities, and although Schmeling isn't one of the most prominent Nazis, he seems to be sympathetic with the cause."

Morris Kaplan, Indiana Condensed Milk Co.: "No. There are two different questions involved. Religion and sports are entirely separate from each other. Schmeling is an innocent party in the case, and should not be discriminated against."

Miss Sylvia Forman, 39 E. 33rd St.: "No. Nationality has nothing to do with the question. Fighting is Schmeling's profession and he should be allowed to demonstrate his ability regardless of political affiliations."

George Michaels, Novelty Sales Co.: "Yes. As Commander of the Jewish War Veterans in Indianapolis I am heartily in favor of a boycott. There is no reason for us to support an affair when the proceeds will be sent to Germany to further Nazi activity. Also Schmeling promised a return bout to Sharkey, but didn't live up to the agreement."

OUR FILM FOLK of HOLLYWOOD

BY HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—Sol Lesser bought an entire Swiss village for a movie set in Bobby Green's "Boy Blue" single. The village had been built precariously near a mountain chasm, was condemned as unsafe, and evacuated by its inhabitants. Lesser, vacationing at St. Mortiz, wanted to buy a few of the house fronts, but the authorities said take all or nothing. He finally agreed, is having it dismantled; and like everything else—Switzerland comes to Hollywood.

Which brings to mind..... the hitunester of the day is Irving Berlin. Insiders claim he has six song hits in "On the Avenue"..... only six..... because that's all the songs there are in the picture.

Two film brothers (not the Warners) are famous for their friendly caustic phone chats. One in New York..... one in California.... they scold and screech at each other. "You blankety-blank sluggard, why won't you show some life in your department!?" "Take care of your end of the business, and I'll mind mine, you nit-witted-!" Then suddenly one sings, "How's Rosie?" "Rosie?" reflects the other, "Shes fine. How's Rheba?" And they hang up, gentle as two love-birds—until the next time—

Parkyakarkas' current favorite concerns the synagogue-goer who chanced to see his friend eating in a restaurant on a fast day. He chided, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, eating on Yom Kippur. And what's worse..... you were eating oysters besides." "I know..... I know," replied the repentant one, "but there's an "R" in Yom Kippur!"

Jack Benny's radio contract has been renewed for three years.... weekly stipend, $12,500..... salary, $1,460,000. A big dish of fello, we'd say.

The tempting finger of Filmland beckoned Samuel Goldenburg of Reinhardt's "The Eternal Road." His friends advised his taking some sort of duplex name like Duff-Gordon, Forbes-Robertson, or Fels-Naptha..... said it would enhance his dignity, get him places. He thought it over. "All right," he agreed, "You can call me Golden-Burg."

Goldman met Ruben on the street. "How's business?" "Not so good. I'm back to two a-day." "H-m-m, not so bad, two shows a day." "No," wagged the other, sadly, "Two customers."

Mr. Untermeyer and elsewhere: many conferences, the last one held only recently, during December 1936, between our League and the Joint Boycott Council of which the American Jewish Congress is a 50% partner. I attended all of them.

At these early conferences, it was clear that our League could not become a part of the American Jewish Congress, but the boycott activities and the boycott committee of the American Jewish Congress could become part of our League, thus forming one united organization to conduct boycott activities. But the representatives of the Congress asked—as a "compensation" for giving up their separate boycott activities—25% of all the funds collected by the united boycott appeal, to be used by the Congress for its other activities.

To this "compensation" Mr. Untermeyer and our committee objected, stating that all money raised for boycott activities must be spent for only such activities and for no other.

The same problem wrecked our last conference with the Joint Boycott Council. We suggest the fusion of all groups into one: a complete united front under one leadership for the boycott, while both partners to the Joint Boycott Council insisted on reserving the right for their organizations to solicit funds separately on the claim that they are doing boycott work, and then allocate part of such ment in the other, the last paragraph, of your column. (There are only two):

"The anti-Nazi League may have spoken a great deal and got itself written about in the newspapers, but it has done very little."

And you justify such a sweeping statement by the fact that the American Jewish Congress arranged the historic street march in protest against Hitler, "in which Mr. Untermeyer's Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League was inactive and unrepresented", and also staged the trial of civilization against Hitler at the Madison Square Garden.

Permit me to call to your attention the fact that he famous sreet demonstration was on May 10th, 1933, while the Anti-Nazi League of the League for Defense of Jewish Rights was officially not organized until May 14th, 1933, and Mr. Untermeyer joined it much later. It may not be of much significance in your estimation, but really, the League could not have participated in that street demonstration before it was born. Won't you please excuse us on that account!

Many of the originators of our League did participate as individuals. I missed my office hours on that day marching with a group of physicians under our own banner from Madison Square to Battery Park. It was during that long walk that we first discussed the advisability of boycotting German drugs and medical supplies.

And as to the Madison Square Garden trial, Mr. Rabinowitz, then Executive Secretary of the League, suggested it to us and we had it under advisement for many weeks. Then the news leaked out and promptly came the announcement that the American Jewish Congress was arranging it, and we dropped the subject, in order not to be accused of attempts to interfere.

But granted these two "scoops", as you journalists call it, do they entitle you to say that: "the Anti-Nazi League may have spoken a great deal and got itself written about in the newspapers, but it has done very little"? I doubt very much whether the many thousands of members of the League all over the United States would agree with you!

With these "minor" corrections, we wish again to thank you for your kindness to the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, and assure you that we are ever ready to supply you with the real facts of the situation, should you desire to touch upon this subject again.

We trust that you will print this in your English column so that it might reach the same people who read your esteemed column of February 7th.

Very truly yours,

Dr. B. Dubovsky
